Hector and his friends are having a great time at the carnival.
After talking with Miss Finney about their day, the friends go to the games arcade.

Miss Finney says, "I'll be here if you need me."

Ranjeet and Sprat are excited to see so many games in the arcade! There are flashing lights everywhere, and lots of noise.

“Welcome to the arcade, my young friends,” says Squid.

Squid says they can play all the games they want if they give him their personal information. Ranjeet and Sprat both want to sign up so they can start playing games.

Squid says he already has Sprat's information. Ranjeet reminds Sprat that he signed up for the music competition earlier in the day.

“Thanks for signing me up, Hector,” says Tama.

“What do you think you are doing, Hector?” asks Ming.

“I signed Tama up for a game,” Hector says. “The games are free.”

Ming thinks that the free game is a trick to get their personal information.

“Hector, you know you shouldn’t give out personal details to people you don’t know.”

Hector knows Ming is right. He made a mistake.

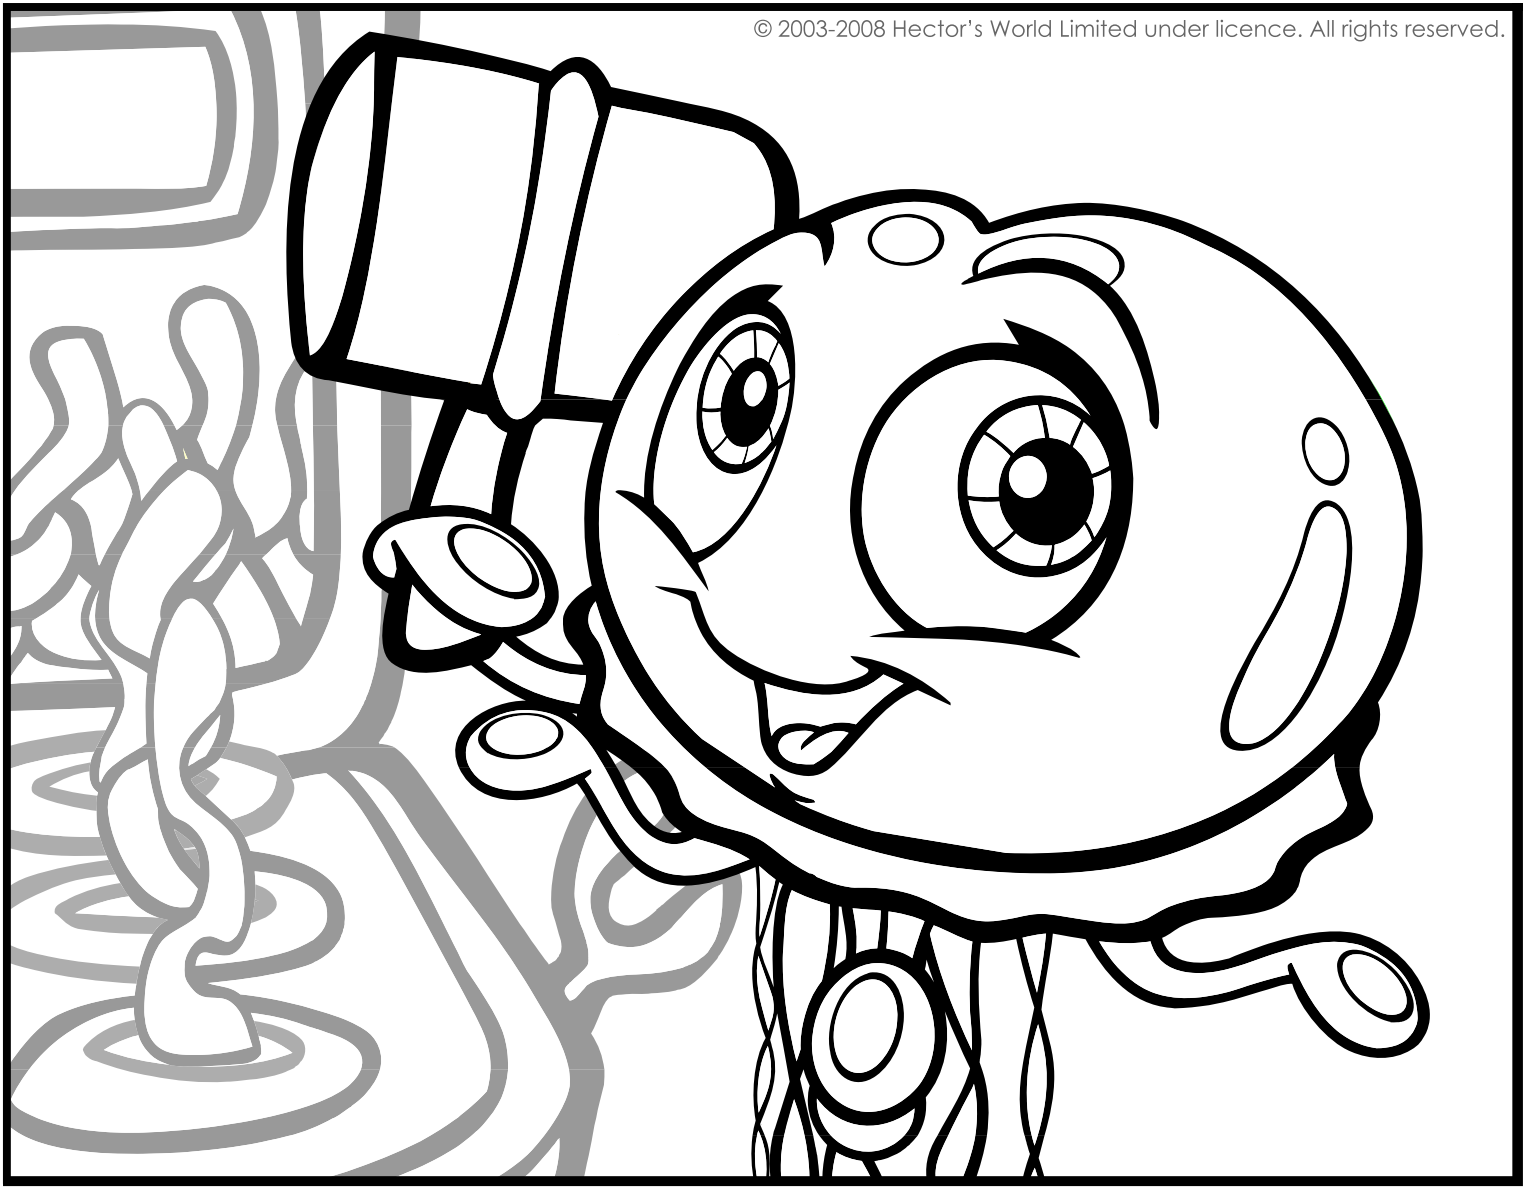

Ming swims off to leave the arcade. On her way, she sees a chess game. Ming loves chess! The game asks for her personal information before she can play.

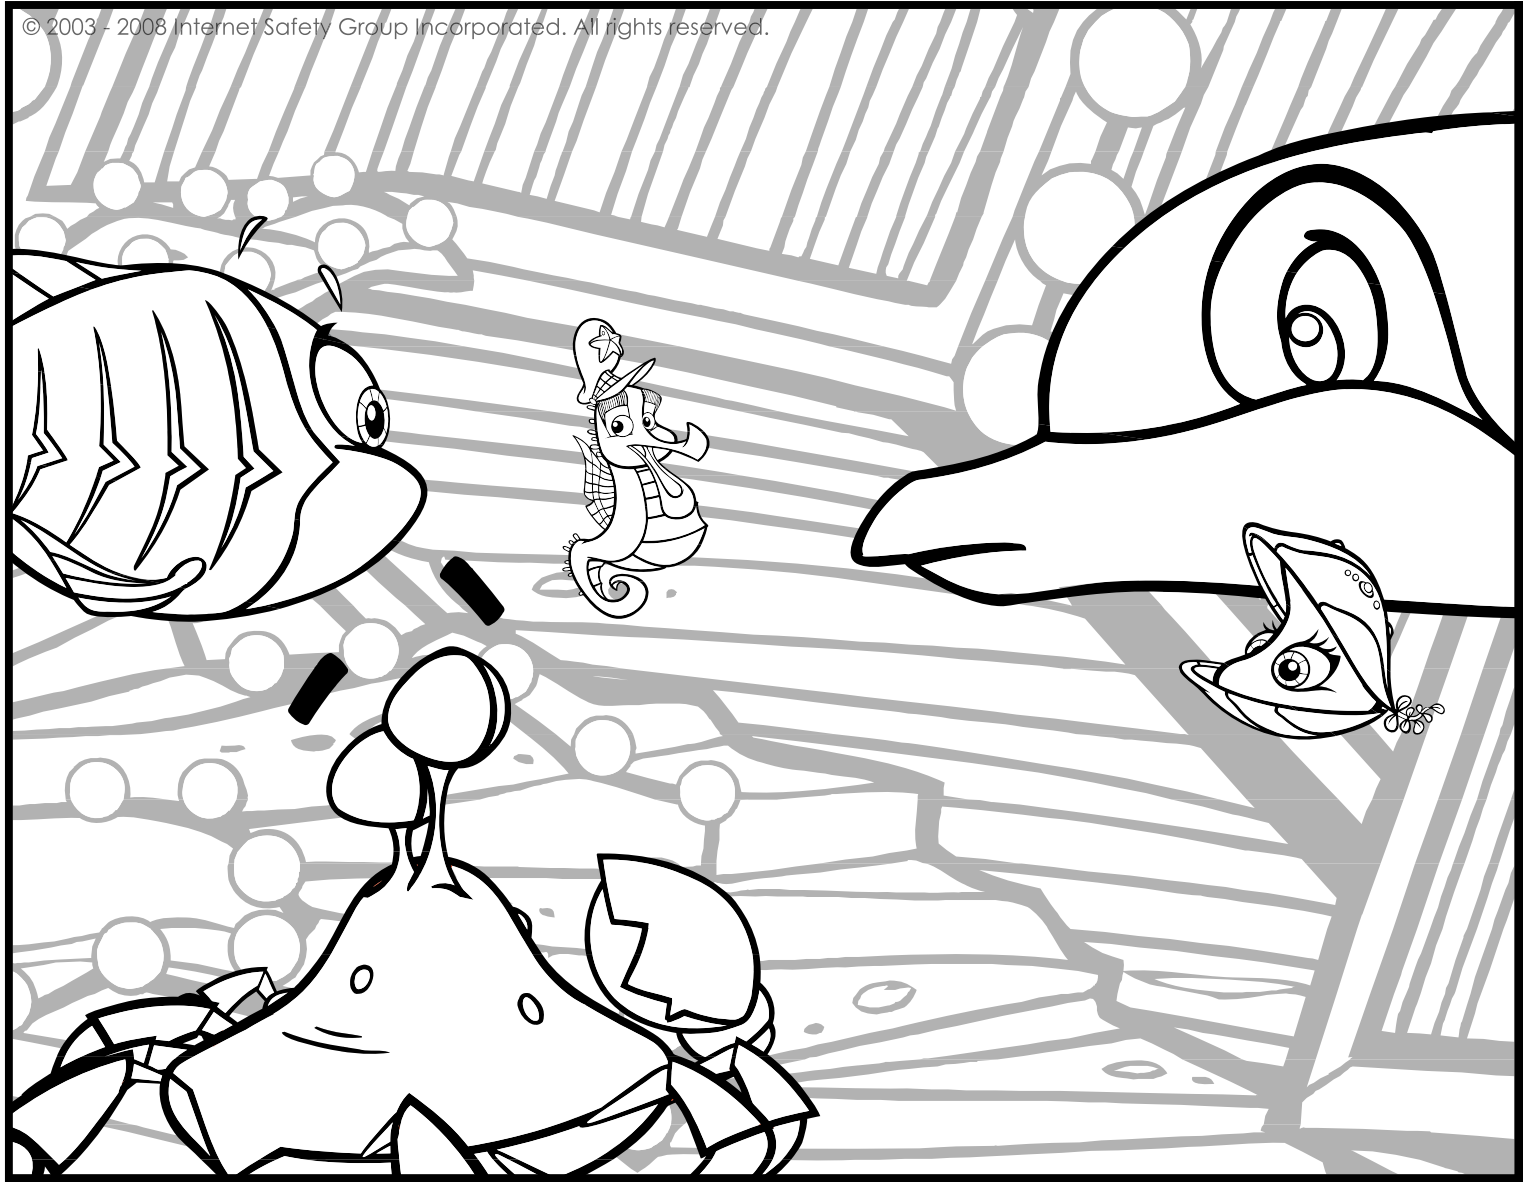

"I need to ask Miss Finney before I give you any of my special details," says Ming.

The game teases Ming for trying to give a nickname instead of her real name.

Ming asks the game what is going to happen to her personal information if she gives it. The game yells at her to get her to give her personal information.

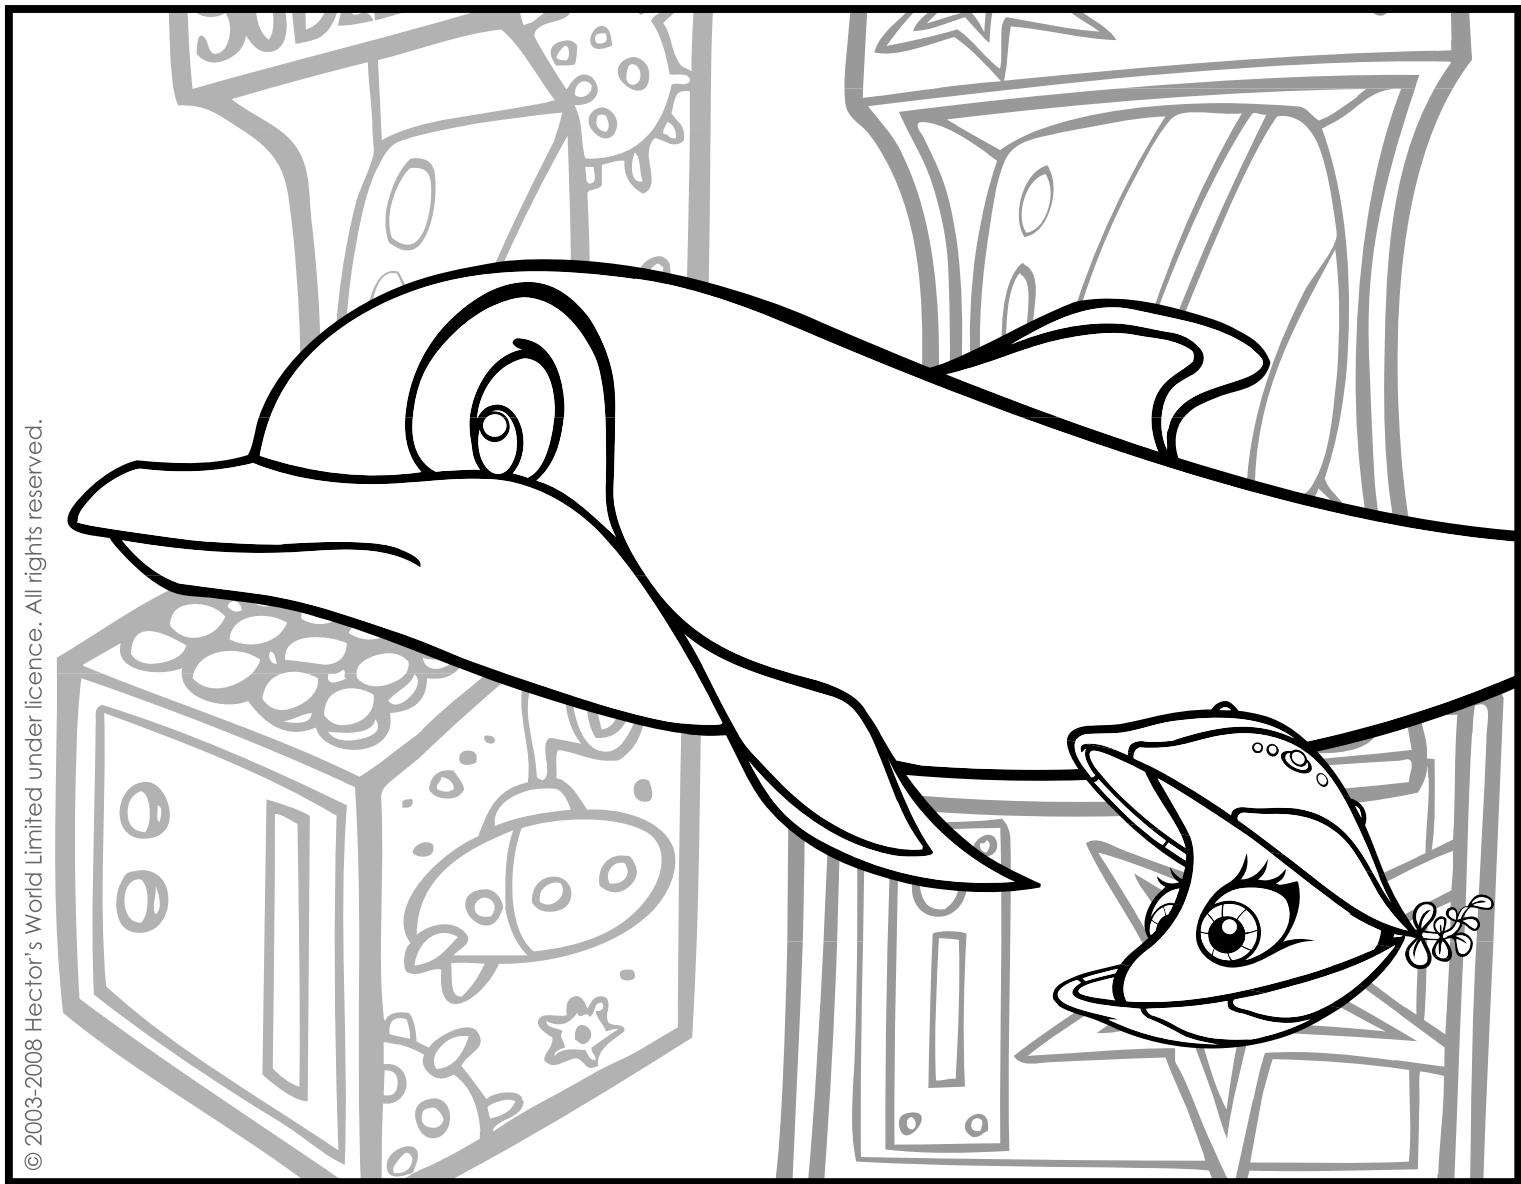

While Ming is talking to the chess game, Tama is having fun playing his game.

Ming and Hector go with Sprat and Ranjeet to talk to Constable Solosolave.

"I hope you are being careful and not giving out your information to people you don't know," says Constable Solosolave. "I think you should keep your eyes on Ranjeet and Sprat before they get into any more trouble."

"Hey, Hector" says Ming. "Where's Tama?"

Hector and Ming go back into the games arcade to look for Tama. They are both worried when they can't see him.
